Installation

Key Installation Facts

- 1) To minimize noise propagation, install at least 6 ft. of 6 in. insulated flex between the universal duct boot (connected to the floor register) and the HCS-BSF.
- 2) To further decrease noise propagation, 6 ft. of insulated flex can be used on the exhaust side of the unit. (Not Included)
- 3) Install the unit as far away as possible from the HCS exhaust system. If this cannot be done, please use 6 in. Flex to pipe the HCS-BSF away from the exhaust system.
- 4) If the building codes in your area require a backdraft damper to be installed, it must be placed on the exhaust side of the booster fan to limit the impact on the total airflow through the unit. (Not Included)
- 5) This unit is typically sold with an HCS exhaust system. If this is the case, then the HCS-BSF system is made to replace your Replenishment vent required by the HCS exhaust system.

Typical Installation Diagram

Preparing the Humidex for Installation

To allow the booster fan to draw air from the upper levels, a universal boot must be installed. First locate a safe place to cut out a hole to fit the universal boot. Once a safe and adequate area had been found, proceed by cutting the hole.

With the hole cut, install the universal booth which will allow the unit to pull the air down.

Now that the boot has been installed, the HCS-BSF can be mounted on a floor joist a minimum of 6 ft. away from the universal boot to reduce noise. Connect the universal boot to the booster fan with the 6 in. insulated flex provided.

If the building codes in your area require a backdraft damper to be installed, it must be placed on the exhaust side of the HCS-BSF to limit the impact on the total airflow through the unit.

Note: A T-junction duct and flex can be added to the exhaust side of the HCS-BSF to direct air into all areas of the crawl space

Now that the booster fan has been installed, it must be connected to the rest of the system. To do so, a wire must be run from the booster to either the main exhaust or the control unit.

Note: These steps must be completed before plugging in the booster fan.

After the white wire has been run it must be connected to the system. Make sure the main HCS exhaust unit is unplugged before connecting the booster fan.

If the booster is connected to the main exhaust, remove the green connector, strip the wire and connect it following the wiring guide. Reconnect the green connector once the wire has been inserted.

If the wire was run to the control, remove the bottom screw and open the control. Strip the wire and add it to the internal connector following the wiring guide. Once done, close the control.

Wiring Guide:

Yellow Wire – B

Green Wire – A

Black Wire – GND

Red Wire – VCC

Note: The main exhaust unit must remain unplugged till the booster fan installation is complete.

Humidex

On the booster fan end of the wire attach the green connector with the wiring matching the wiring guide above

Now that the connector has been wired, insert it into the Booster fan unit.

Now that the booster fan has been installed and connected to the main exhaust unit, the HCS-BSF can be plugged into any 115V outlet. With the BSF plugged in, the main exhaust unit can be plugged in.

Note: A grounded extension cord with a maximum length of 10 feet may be used if necessary.
